

NEUTRAL 285/1030

Approximately 28%

Here are 10% of randomly selected responses from the “Neutral” category:

1. I am neutral because I am not opposed to it. However, I have had very uncomfortable encounters with guys on campus so I'm not sure if it will make it worse.
2. I think it won't matter. One way it's good and one way it's bad.
3. It doesn't bother me.
4. Not enough details on the matter. How much money will it be? Also whose budget is it coming out of? All stalls or 50/50 with urinals? Would construction of it cause disturbance to classes?
5. If it could be created w/o major impact to budgets, then by all means.
6. I have no opinion.
7. Although I support gender neutrality, I feel I should not have a say in this matter. This is because I cannot relate to those who need it.
8. Whatever to make people comfortable.
9. Just as long as one person is in it at a time.
10. I think it's an important issue to talk about, but not the most important thing. I, personally, don't think it's affordable at all. I think the fact our government plays goofs on us through the news is more important.
11. If it were to change every bathroom, I'd be against it, but because it's just one it doesn't matter.
12. It doesn't pertain to me.
13. I don't mind one way or the other.
14. I'm not sure if this means that all the bathrooms on the 2nd floor would be neutral, but I think that there should still be men and women's with an additional option of gender neutral.
15. Possibility for overcrowding since two+ genders can go to these restrooms.
16. Restroom is a restroom.
17. I have no issue either way.
18. I don't need one, but if others do then ok.
19. It doesn't bother me or help me.
20. I'm not been the type of person to be against this topic of gender neutrality. If it is seen as an issue by others, and there needs to be a change, then I'm all for it.
21. I am fine with or without a change in the bathrooms. Everyone should have a place they feel comfortable to use the restroom.
22. It seems like it would cost a lot of money for a very minor change.
23. If that's something people feel they need, then sure.
24. I don't care that much.
25. I am not opposed to gender neutral bathrooms, but am not advocating for them
26. I believe that people who wish to identify as a particular gender should be able to do so and should have accessible restrooms.
27. I have no strong feelings one way or the other.
28. I mean as long as I can efficiently use the restroom and get water, I don't really care
