Nicole Block FTVM Program	The annual student film festival is off-campus at the High Street Arts Center and up to 250 students and community members can attend for free. FTVM students showcase their television and film projects featuring music created by Music students and action from the Theatre Arts program. The printing of posters, flyers, ballots, programs, and banner will help promote event so students and community members will know about the event.	$300.00	$300.00	0	Event canceled
