Instructional Methodology

Specify the methods of instruction that may be employed in this course

Distance Education
 Group discussions
 Internet research
 Observation
 Readings

Describe specific examples of the methods the instructor will use:

1. Students will submit written assignments based on topics from readings: Read the lecture material for this lesson "Choreographer –Dancer–Audience" and "Gender in Dance." Reflect on what you have read and select a quote from the material that appears in either lecture (1 to 2 sentences) that stood out to you the most. Copy and paste your chosen quote then describe why you found it interesting, insightful, or meaningful to you.
2. Discussion forums: In this discussion forum, we can share and discuss our favorite dance styles of today. What type of dance attracts you? Do a quick web search of dance styles you like (or perhaps you already have a favorite in mind). It may be a music video, a dance seen on a television show, an excerpt from a movie, or a group/company with which you are personally familiar. Pick one video and post the URL here, with a brief description following the guidelines below:
 Submissions should range from 100 to 200 words. Include how your video utilizes both Action and Stillness as movement concepts to express its goal. How does the use of Action and Stillness help communicate the idea of the dance, the feel of the dance, the style or message of the dance?

Representative Course Assignments

Writing Assignments

- Research and write a report on a historical genre/historical figure.
- Write an analysis of a dance work in the form of a dance critique.

Critical Thinking Assignments

- Create and submit a formally written dance critique.
- Participate in an in-class discussion that compares and contrasts two or more dance works, from the same genre and/or disparate genres.
- Participate in an in-class discussion on the history and representative style of a dance genre.

Reading Assignments

- Read Judith Hanna's article and identify the salient portions of her thesis that correspond to your perspective on dance as movement language. (Hanna, Judith. (2001). The Language of Dance. Journal of Physical Education, Recreation & Dance. 72. 40-45. 10.1080/07303084.2001.10605738.)
- From the lecture reading "Responsibility of the Choreographer" select and research one of the choreographers that was mentioned in the lecture and find an appropriate article/book/essay that discusses their choreography philosophy. Write a 500 word overview of their objectives.

Skills Demonstrations

- Observe the people in your chosen location for no less than 5 minutes. Take detailed notes about the actions and gestures you see as the people communicate with their body (i.e., greeting, saying goodbye, asking a question, and so forth).
 - Describe the use of each body part (including the head, arms, hands, torso, shoulders, legs, feet) as observed.
 - Are the gestures understandable as you watch from afar? Can you tell what is being communicated?
 - What energetic qualities do you see in the gestures? Think about adjectives and adverbs you would use to describe these qualities (i.e., soft, quick, strong, wiggly, slinky, abrupt, collapsed, heavy).
 - After your analysis, incorporate Language of Dance terms to supplement your observations.
- Please respond to the performance in a formal dance critique. Display through your critique (500 to 750 words) your thorough understanding of the Language of Dance elements covered in the course.

Outside Assignments

Representative Outside Assignments

- Observe a dance class or rehearsal then describe movements using the LOD (Language of Dance) language.
- Read biographies and articles related to the performers, choreographers, directors and performances from dance history.
- View and/or review videos and/or live dance productions then write a critique utilizing the LOD language to support the statements and observations.
